

August 2025 Rate Campaign

Launch-rate options v0.3 — prepared for the startup checking launch assumptions review.

Prepared by: Luis Ortega, Deposit Operations · August 7, 2025

Circulated to: Product, Pricing, Risk, Compliance

Decision requested at the launch assumptions review — the dated launch-rate sheet records the outcome

Where we are

- Startup segment demand keeps growing; entry-account openings lead the funnel.
- Competitor launch offers lean on introductory rates with high balance floors.
- We want one launch rate for the premium tier that survives compliance review.
- Whatever we pick must be replaceable by a dated final sheet before October.

Proposed launch rates — Lime Green

OPTION	LAUNCH APY	BALANCE FLOOR	NOTES
Option A	0.95%	$5,000	Conservative; matches standard floor
Option B ★ recommended	1.10%	$7,500	Carried into the launch-rate sheet
Option C	1.30%	$10,000	Pricing flagged margin risk

All three options are draft proposals. None of these values is a customer term unless it appears in a dated final source.

Eligibility exception concept

Idea: allow one previously closed account with a manual review lane, so near-miss applicants stay in the funnel.

Risk objection (Aug 21 workshop): a manual lane weakens the eligibility gate and is hard to audit. Unresolved at the time of this draft.

- If Risk does not sign off, the exception dies with this draft.
- Operations wants any exception path drawn as its own reviewed flowchart.

Rollout sketch

Dates are planning targets, not commitments.

Open questions

- Final APY sign-off: Pricing wants margin modeling on Option B before approval.
- Floor level: does $7,500 hold, or do we align to the standard $5,000 floor?
- Overlap: how does the launch offer interact with fall campaign planning?
- Who owns the records-index entry once this draft is replaced?

Decision requested

Requested — sign-off on one option at the launch assumptions review. Pricing margin modeling on Option B (1.10% APY, $7,500 balance floor) is due before approval; the dated launch-rate sheet records whatever lands.

- Product terms stay on the published product pages until a sheet is dated.
- October campaign planning consumes the outcome, not this paper.
- Comments route to Deposit Operations by August 14.
