

Make November the True Blue moment

Priority proposal for the November 2025 business checking campaign.

Marketing · October 24, 2025 · Concept v0.2

Prepared for the November priority review – decision requested October 28

The pitch

Our premium flagship deserves the spotlight quarter.

Flagship tier

True Blue anchors the top of the business checking lineup – the account we want ambitious operators to see first.

Premium economics

The highest-yield tier in the lineup with unlimited included transactions for heavy operators.

Halo effect

A premium spotlight lifts perception of the whole lineup, even for customers who land elsewhere.

Proposed priority (draft – not approved)

1

True Blue

Premium spotlight – the ask

2

Sky Blue

Startup story continues

3

Lime Green

Premium follow-through

Proposal only. Campaign priority is set by Product in the dated campaign record.

Why now

- ◆ Q4 is the premium quarter: budget resets and year-end cash management put operators in motion.
- ◆ The October campaign already warmed the premium tier; November can carry it upmarket.
- ◆ A flagship moment gives sales one clear story for the quarter.

Fit questions for Product

Requested before the October 28 review:

Fit analysis on the premium fee and balance floor against the November target segment. If most qualifying customers cannot use the spotlight, we want to know before placement, not after.

- ◆ Where does November demand concentrate – startup, entry, or premium?
- ◆ Fit-first guardrail: a promoted account must meet everything the customer asked for.

The ask

Slot True Blue as the November priority.

Decision requested at the October 28 planning review, with Product fit analysis in hand. The dated November campaign record carries whatever priority is approved.

Creative concepts are ready to brief the week of November 3 if the priority lands.

Appendix – assumptions (to validate)

- ◆ Assumed uplift from premium positioning was extrapolated from the October premium tier response.
- ◆ Assumed segment mix used summer application data, before the startup surge.
- ◆ No pricing or terms changes were proposed; this concept was placement-only.