

ATM fees, rebates & credits — your first two weeks

Where the answers live, what to watch, and who to ask. This deck points; it does not restate.

Where the answers live

Published product pages

Fee schedules, worked examples, and limits for each checking product. If a customer asks what something costs, the page is your source — read it with them.

Program Operations announcements

Rebate-program parameters are announced in dated go-live notes from Program Operations. Page refreshes ride the content cycle, so a recently changed program number is governed by its dated note until the page catches up.

Ops boards (ATM-OPS-201 / ATM-OPS-202)

Intake, lookup, and the credit-application procedure. The current revision on the board wall is the one you follow — drafts circulate, boards govern.

#atm-ops pins

Operational rulings get pinned in the channel by the floor ops lead. Check the pins before improvising; if a pin and your memory disagree, the pin wins.

Watch these two recordings first

Posting & settlement calibration

S. Okafor works the settlement-date examples across products, live, with the room checking the math. Watch it before your first fee-posting question, not after.

Purple rebate-denial triage readiness session

D. Reeves walks the denial triage end to end, including why the shortcuts you will be tempted by don't work. The intake board routes to this session by date — the walkthrough is the procedure.

Both recordings are on the enablement drive under their session dates. The chapter markers match the worked examples.

The QA kept-call library

- › I. Halvorsen's team keeps a reviewed library of real calls and chats on this section. Kept records are your reference for how credit-policy conversations should sound.
- › Statuses mean what they say: approved is the reference; approved-with-coaching is the reference plus a note; a rejected record is kept for coaching and is not a phrasing source.
- › When a customer situation feels new, search the library before you freelance — the odds someone has handled it are excellent.
- › Library access comes with your QA workspace grant, day one.

Your first two weeks

WHEN	WHAT	WITH
Days 1–2	Systems access, workspace grants, both recordings	Enablement
Days 3–5	Shadowing on rows 3–4, listen-only	Floor mentor
Week 2	Supervised calls; mentor holds the credit tool until sign-off	Floor mentor + QA
End of week 2	Calibration check-in — bring two calls you'd defend and one you wouldn't	S. Okafor

Nothing in this plan authorizes a write. Tool sign-off is your mentor's call, recorded on your training file.

On the calendar for this cohort: multi-correction credit handling — policy sign-off (Nov).

Who to ask

Floor operations — D. Reeves

Procedure questions, board revisions, anything mid-call that isn't covered.

QA — I. Halvorsen

Library access, record statuses, coaching notes.

Training — S. Okafor

Recordings, calibration sessions, this deck.

Program parameters — M. Castillo's team

Rebate-program questions beyond what the dated announcements answer.
Don't guess program numbers; ask or point at the note.

Site content corrections go to L. Fischer / R. Menon — flag stale pages, don't work around them silently.
