Personal Deposit Rate & Fee Schedule

Issue	PDR-2025-11	Effective date	2025-11-03
Supersedes	PDR-2025-09	Custodian	Deposit Products Records (document control)
Applies to	Personal savings and checking deposit products. Deposit APYs are variable; online and mobile banking display rates as of the current day from the pricing system. This schedule is the controlled statement of rate structures, boost and bonus rules, and qualifying pairings.

1. Linked checking account APY boosts

When a customer holds, under the same customer profile, a checking account and a savings account in one of the pairings listed in section 1.1, a linked checking APY boost for that pairing is applied automatically to the savings account balance. If multiple active Rho-Bank checking accounts linked to the profile each provide a boost for the same savings account type, only the highest applicable checking account APY boost is applied; the other checking boosts are not added.

Only the pairings listed above qualify for the linked checking account APY boost. All other checking and savings combinations do not receive any APY boost from linking. The exact APY boost percentage for each qualifying pairing is published in the savings account's product documentation (see the product supplements index in section 5); this schedule does not restate per-pairing percentages.

1.2 HOW BOOSTS COMBINE

- A linked checking account APY boost is additive to the savings account base APY and to any credit card APY bonuses the customer may already have.
- Checking account APY boosts do not stack with each other. When multiple Rho-Bank checking accounts each provide an APY boost on the savings account, only the highest applicable boost applies.
- Checking account APY boosts do stack with other types of bonuses, including credit card APY bonuses, relationship bonuses for holding multiple Rho-Bank products, and account tier bonuses.

EXAMPLE — MULTIPLE CHECKING ACCOUNTS

A Gold Savings Account customer holds a Green Account checking, which provides a boost of +0.75%, and a Purple Account checking, which provides a boost of +0.1%. The customer receives only the Green Account boost of +0.75%, not the sum of both.

WHY THIS IS PINNED HERE

- The pairing table tells you whether a checking-and-savings pairing qualifies at all. The boost percentage for a qualifying pairing is quoted from the savings product's own documentation, per the schedule's sentence under the table.
- When a customer holds two checking accounts that both pair with the same savings account, read the example box on the second page across the desk — do not add the two boost lines yourself.
- This capture prints the section 1 pages only. For balance tiers, base rates, and the supplements index, open the document-control copy held by Deposit Products Records.
